ALEMBIC CITY

ABOUT ALEMBIC CITY ART DISTRICT

Alembic City's Industrial Art District is the historic location where Alembic's first manufacturing plant was set up in 1908. Dedicated to cultural and creative arts, this new space leverages the rich industrial heritage of the Alembic Group while giving the space a renewed purpose as a central destination for the people of Vadodara.

The Art District includes a uniquely-positioned artist studio - Space Studio, an amphitheatre, a museum, and a multipurpose hall and encourages stimulating platforms of engagement including events, sports, concerts, art exhibitions, cultural performances, and intellectual discourses.

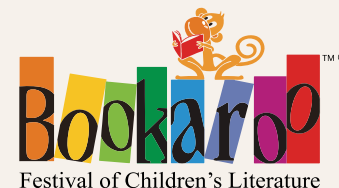

ABOUT BOOKAROO

Based in New Delhi, Bookaroo Trust is committed to bringing good literature to children and spread the joy of reading. Promoting book-related events, Bookaroo works in tandem with writers, illustrators, storytellers, theatre people, publishers, editors and schools.

Bookaroo is a winner of the Festival of the Year Award at the International Excellence Awards in the 2017 London Book Fair. The festival that began in 2008 has, since, travelled to 17 cities (16 in India and one in Malaysia) and has completed 38 editions in 14 years, focuses on 'Reading for Pleasure'.

Let's stay safe! While Bookaroo is taking all possible steps to maintain Covid protocols, we request you to cooperate with our volunteers when they are managing entry and seating arrangements in various sub venues.

Dear friend,

Who would have thought - in November 2019, when one departed from Vadodara after a heady first edition of Bookaroo in that city - that it would be three, long years, before one would be able to again set foot in the sylvan settings of Alembic City's Art District?

The Bookaroo timeline over the past 14 years has witnessed many troughs and crests. Fortunately, instances of the latter were more. But no dip has affected all of us at the same time as the pandemic did.

The raison d'être of Bookaroo lay in the face-to-face meetings with children, their families and Bookaroo's amazing bunch of writers, illustrators and storytellers. Though we tried doing it, online was not the same as saying hello to your favourite storyteller or having your book signed by your favourite author or illustrator, all the while chatting with them.

As the world slowly opened up, and we ventured out to mingle safely, Bookaroo too felt that the time was just right to step out. And Vadodara it was, our first destination out of Delhi. So, here we are - back in the midst of children, authors, illustrators and storytellers - celebrating yet another Bookaroo.

A big thank you to Krupa and Udit, the prime movers of the Art District for hosting the festival and making it happen. A big thank you to the 33 speakers - not only from across India but from Portugal and Spain too - who agreed to be with us. A big thank you to all the sponsors, publishers and arts councils who unhesitatingly said yes to Bookaroo Vadodara.

Who would have thought - during the dark, despairing months of the pandemic that was on the rampage across the world - that one would be able to return to the venue that one had fallen in love with, three years ago?

Look Who's Here!

Abhishek Talwar

An environmentalist, road-tripper, mountain buff, dreamer and storyteller, Abhishek has the knack of explaining complex concepts in simple terms, through exciting stories that grip his young readers from the word go!

Arthi Anand Navaneeth

Arthi loves to smell the tadka, enjoys mysteries and believes she was born to travel, sing, eat and solve jigsaw puzzles. She pieces together stories with a common thread from all over for her audience.

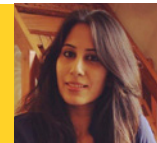

Champa Saha

Champa Saha's role as teacher, special educator and counsellor gives her the opportunity to be in the world that she loves the most – that of stories. She loves stories, children and dogs, not necessarily in that order!

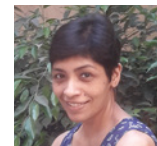

Kayva Gokhale

A student of literature, Kayva Gokhale is an avid reader and a horror movie aficionado. She also creates content for the comics as well as the digital platforms for Amar Chitra Katha.

Art educator Kripa has illustrated five children's books with 'art' and 'city' featuring as recurring themes. Her art is rooted in her engagement with her home, its children and people and their problems.

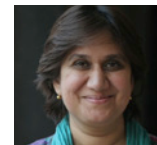

Lavanya Karthik

In her dreams, Lavanya Karthik is a skilled ninja warrior who speaks nine languages, sings like a nightingale and has excellent gardening skills. Everywhere else, she is a grumpy writer and illustrator, who eats a lot of chocolate and takes a lot of naps.

Likla

Likla, an ever-curious learner and a voracious reader, found her calling as a writer. With Art1st, she has been writing children's books about art. She also loves to dance, code, and make digital art and music.

Lubaina Bandukwala

Lubaina Bandukwala trained as a journalist but now spends her time as an editor and writer of children's books, and curates litfests for kids. She does this because she can read lots of children's books and call it work.

Look Who's Here!

Mala Kumar

Mala Kumar is fascinated by the natural world and often dreams of going on field visits with children up hills, down rivers and through forests. She has also written over 40 picture books.

Mariona Cabassa

Mariona Cabassa comes from Catalonia, Spain. A student of art in Barcelona and research in Strasbourg she has illustrated over 80 children's books. She has worked as an illustrator, painter, installation-maker and tattoo artist.

Menaka Raman

Author, plant killer and dog petter Menaka Raman has written picture books, short stories and a YA novel. She is known to hide Nutella jars only to eat straight from them when everyone else is asleep.

Nalini Ramachandran

Nalini Ramachandran enjoys making her way through a maze of ideas, disentangling a web of plot lines, digging through tunnels of research, living the lives of multiple characters at once, and finally discovering a treasure trove of tales.

Nandita da Cunha

Nandita is an award-winning author, whose books range from fantasy to fictionalised biography! She's also a full-time mom, once-upon-a-time management consultant, part-time traveller, free-time pianist, and rest-of-the-time dreamer.

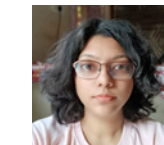

Nic and Inês

This artist-teacher-author-publisher couple went mad one day and started doing what they are passionate about. They now take their art workshops, that they began in their living room, all across the world.

Pervin Saket

Pervin Saket has authored over a dozen books of fiction and poetry. She writes for both, children and adults, but which does she enjoy more? She promises to tell you when you meet her!

Pratika Gupta

Science and Math are Pratika's favourites. She is the editor of a science magazine and uses her editing scissors to great effect. She likes to listen to songs and hum along. She prefers children as friends.

Don't forget to buy your favourite books from the festival bookstore, Eureka!, and have them signed at the book-signing area.

Look Who's Here!

Preethi Menon

Preethi Menon has been an educator for over three decades. She loves travelling with stories swirling in her head. She teaches passionately, reads hungrily, travels extensively, laughs heartily and loves nature unconditionally!

Priya Kuriyan

Priya Kuriyan is an illustrator, picture book and comics maker. She lives and works in the city of Bangalore and in her spare time likes to make caricatures of the city's residents.

Priyankar Gupta

Priyankar is a visual storyteller. His audiences are ad agencies, film production and publishing houses. He even teaches young minds how to see things and believe in the method of madness in a design school. He loves people and their stories.

Rohini Vij

Rohini lives many lives because of the stories she tells. As a story educator and founder of NutSpace, she is actively involved in the early years space. She is passionate about voice acting and drama.

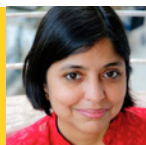

Sandeep Virmani

Sandeep spends most of his time working with people who live in forests; they live simple lives, and believe that making good friends is the best way to be happy. He is an architect who makes mud buildings.

Seema Wahi Mukherjee

Seema Wahi Mukherjee loves to add surprises to her act. You will never guess what she can pull out from her jaadu ka pitara - with a dash of drama and a 'ribbon' of songs.

Shabnam Minwalla

Shabnam Minwalla is a mother of three. In the little time off that this brain-scrambling job permits, she writes books for children and adults, magazine articles and book reviews.

Shalini Satish and Raam Baranidharan

Raam is the CTO of a blockchain-based start-up and Shalini is a software engineer by profession and a writer by passion. They are bedazzled by the magical powers of technology and would like to spark curiosity in young minds!

Look Who's Here!

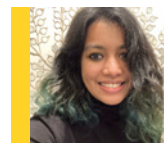

Shruti Hemani

Architect, urban designer and illustrator of pictures books, Shruti is a keen observer of all forms of life between buildings. If not wandering the streets of Jaipur observing insects, birds and people she may be found hiking in the Aravalis.

Sudha Madhavan

Sudha Madhavan is a Bengaluru-based author, travel writer, artist, educator and former consultant with leading NGOs. She loves curating stories for children, both in prose and verse, from mythology, history and various cultures.

Tithee Dixit

Tithee Dixit, who illustrates and designs creatives for digital platforms of Amar Chitra Katha, holds a degree in architecture. She is found forever sketching or clicking scenes, people and buildings she finds interesting and aesthetic.

Unnati Shah

Apart from being a storyteller, Unnati is a die-hard Garba- and food-lover. She has been a vocalist once and still loves to sing casually. What she cherishes most is sharing stories with her son, every day.

Vaishali Shroff

Vaishali Shroff is an award-winning author with superpowers! She can talk to potatoes, paos and random objects, and they talk back to her. She prefers children over adults, forests over concrete jungles, and chocolate over anything else.

Varsha Seshan

Varsha Seshan is a writer of lists, emails, and children's books. Her childhood dream was to drive a road-roller, but she discovered that writing was more fun. She loves windy, rainy days, full of magic.

Yuti Jhaveri

For this biomedical engineer-turned-equity-analyst-turned author, writing children's books happened by chance. Yuti wrote her first Zayn & Zoey book about four years ago and has published over 45 since. She wants to make learning enjoyable through stories.

Don't forget to buy your favourite books from the festival bookstore, Eureka!, and have them signed at the book-signing area.
